The 2012 Viosinho / Verdelho Andreza is a tank-fermented blend that I have not seen before. It comes in at 13.5% alcohol. Lacking the grip and power of its Codega sibling reviewed this issue, this blend compensates with a fresher and livelier feel. It has reasonable mid-palate solidity, though, and good balance as well, with all of its parts nicely integrated. It is fresh, fun and very tasty. It is not as yet imported; the price is merely advisory. There were 666 six-packs produced. (Hopefully, that is not so many sixes that it scares you off.) Drink now-2015.
